“Wherefore, let us also learn, from the example of holy Joseph, to honour the grace of God even among unbelievers; and if they shut the door against the entire and full doctrine of piety; we must, at least, endeavour to instil some drops of it into their minds. Let us also reflect on this, that nothing is less tolerable than for men to arrogate to themselves anything as their own; for this is the first step of wisdom, to ascribe nothing to ourselves; but modestly to confess, that whatever in us is worthy of praise, flows only from the fountain of God’s grace. It is especially worthy of notice, that as the Spirit of understanding is given to any one from heaven, he will become a proper and faithful interpreter of God.” - John Calvin

“Joseph does more than he had been asked to do; for he is not merely the interpreter of the dream; but, as fulfilling the office of a prophet, he adds instruction and counsel. For we know that the true and lawful prophets of God do not barely predict what will happen in future; but propose remedies for impending evils. Therefore Joseph, after he had uttered a prophecy of the changes which would take place in fourteen years, now teaches what ought to be done; and exhorts Pharaoh to be vigilant in the discharge of his duty. And one of the marks by which God always distinguished his own prophets from false prognosticators, was to endue them with the power of teaching and exhorting, that they might not uselessly predict future events.” - John Calvin

“No meltdown here! Joseph was all steel. Observe carefully that he told Pharaoh (who himself was considered to be a god incarnate) that God (ha Elohim, “the God”) would explain his dream. Thus, to Pharaoh’s face Joseph asserted that his God was superior to and sovereign over the gods of Egypt. Joseph’s theological knowledge rose high against the face of worldly power. Joseph’s speech to Pharaoh was the same here as it was to the prisoners in the pit. In prison he had declared, “Do not interpretations belong to God? Please tell [your dreams] to me” (40:8). Here he declared, “It is not in me; God [ha Elohim] will give Pharaoh a favorable answer” (v. 16). Joseph had not changed one whit in his trip from the pit to the palace. Those thirteen years of preparation were now paying huge dividends. Through Joseph, God was advertising and asserting himself in Egypt.” - R. Kent Hughes
